Companies selected for Bull City Startup Stampede 2.0

DURHAM, NC— The Greater Durham Chamber of Commerce is pleased to announce that 13 companies have been selected for the Bull City Startup Stampede 2.0 to be held in downtown Durham September 16 to November 18.

The Bull City Startup Stampede, an initiative of the Chamber, Downtown Durham, Inc., and their economic development partners, is geared toward attracting and scaling more startup companies in downtown Durham. The Stampede offers 60 days of completely furnished, free space at 201 W. Main St., a Self-Help building. Participating companies will have access to technical assistance from startup experts as well as opportunities to network with founders of successful Durham startups.

This is the second time this year that the Stampede has been offered to startup companies. The Stampede is part of the Chamber's broader economic development strategy focused on job creation through business recruitment and retention, workforce development, and startup growth.

Fifty-five startups from across the southeast and North Carolina applied for the Stampede. Applications were received from companies in Georgia and Connecticut as well as from cities such as Washington, D.C., Charlotte, and Wilmington. Concepts ranged from technology and software to cleantech and social entrepreneurship.

"We saw a very strong applicant pool for Stampede 2.0," said Adam Klein, Director of Strategic Initiatives at the Greater Durham Chamber of Commerce. "The quality of the teams and ideas was rich. It's exciting to see so many people looking to start their company in Durham."

The companies that were not selected for the Stampede have already been connected to the many business resources available in Durham such as Bull City Forward, N.C. Institute for Minority Economic Development, Durham Technical Community College Small Business Center, CED, LaunchBox Digital, Joystick Labs, and the Small Business and Technical Development Center.

"This group of participants builds on the economic clusters and strengths of the Triangle," said Klein. "We have companies in the cleantech and sustainability space, companies in technology and media as well as unique product concepts. These startups are all eager to grow and scale in North Carolina."
